You frequently see an ad in a national magazine which advertises "the Great Books" and which slams out: "For the man who is not afraid to show he has brains" or thereabout.

A guy like this for no reason of his own bothers the bejabbers out of non-readers, though educated, who don't like to risk their literary shellack.

George Montgomery, actor and furniture builder, is always comparing the merits of spray-on wax to paste wax, presumed the measure of furniture finishing. But it takes "elbow grease" to use. The spray-on variety requires the dedication of any aerosol treatment and promises the same permanence of an anti-perspirant on a guy who works around a blast furnace all day.

Forget reading habits. Just being a Yankee arouses demerits among Cen-Tex establishmentarians, but a Yankee who reads heavy stuff, beyond the books of the Bible (which in no way is put down) and who, perish any infinitely fragile thought, thinks aloud and uses an extra syllable or two once in a while, is somehow unTexan.

Knowing the experience, answering the inevitable--"What are you doing in a small town in Central Texas?"--I wonder what is "Texan" in 1974.

It is surely not only the awe of owning things, of bragging about wealth to a great extent accidental, of seeing things only through the "Eyes of Texas."

Is it seeing through a space-age Houston or LBJ Space Center that limitless reaches out there make Texas spaceless by comparison?

Texans are big thinkers and big doers. But the biggest and best are not bought. And like Jimmy Dean says about cheap sausage: "Everybody knows that."

The Texas myth is steeped in empire, in a collision of cultures, in fortune hunting, in heroics. But many traditions are in limbo about 1845 to 1865.

So why not read the "great books" somewhere else?

I am here because this is an old Texas newspaper; Cameron and this area have great potential, now seen by natives; and the rest of the country is filling up with what we long ago identified as the "plastic society."

By the latter, I mean filled with stamped-out business communities, stamped-out values, stamped-out solutions to problems, stamped - out people. Put a little heat to most of these, and they melt.

Texas was not built by these and was not meant to be carried forward by these. Look at the temperature, not only the 105 degrees F. outside, but at the pressures of the day.

Bragadosio won't deal with plastic poured over a volcano, which is the uncertain state of things Texas, things nation, things world.

Even a Yankee knows that.

Or "my name isn't George Montgomery."

Meeting To Air UR Project

REAR VIEW of delapidated buildings and weed-covered junk scheduled for demolition and removal in the city's extension of the urban renewal project.

A town hall meeting will air the new program at 7 p.m. Thursday (tonight) at the Cameron Community Center.

Extension To Include Three City Blocks

City council members and the Community Development Agency board will present the proposed extension of the city's urban renewal project at a town hall meeting Thursday (tonight) at 7 p.m. in the Cameron Community Center.

The city council will meet for its regular session at 5:30 p.m. at city hall, and adjourn the meeting to the Community Center for the public hearing.

The proposed program extends the present urban renewal area south one block to the original boundary of the project.

Included are block 21, containing the fire station and city hall; block 22 across from city hall; and block 23, containing Chandler's Body Shop.

The program will include acquisition of property and demolition of certain buildings. Scheduled for demolition are all the buildings in block 23 all in block 22 with the exception of Anderson's and demolition of the hay barn in block 21. Businesses in the area will be relocated.

Relocation benefits will be explained at the town hall meeting.

New streets, curbs and gutters, water lines and storm drainage will be installed in the area.

A. W. McCullin, executive director of the Agency, explained that the area will be developed for public use and the project will provide an exposition area for the Junior Livestock Show and the county Junior Poultry Show, a farmers market and commercial parking, among other public reuse.

Cost of the project will be approximately $133,000 with one-fourths participation by the city and three-fourths by the federal government. Cameron's share will be in cash or credit and McCullin said funds are available from savings in the present urban renewal project to take care of the city's share in the project.

The public is invited and urged to attend the meeting for answers to any questions they may have about the project.

Agent Urges Cattle Vaccination

Milam County Agent Bill McCutchen this week urged cattlemen not to slow down on vaccinating their cattle against anthrax even if official reports show the epidemic in Falls County is slowing down.

"The safe thing to do is vaccinate," McCutchen said, adding that ranchers are "not too excited now" since the first panic spread by word of the anthrax outbreak has cooled off.

McCutchen said some cattlemen were turning back vaccine to veterinarians and not vaccinating their herds. "I realize this weather is rough on those who have to work cattle to vaccinate them, and it should be done early in the mornings or late afternoon to prevent loss," he stated. "We'd like to see them go ahead."

The current dry weather, relieved only slightly by scattered showers last week, adds to the danger of anthrax breaking out in other areas besides Falls County, animal health officials warned this week.

Dr. James Young of the Texas Animal Health Commission reported two confirmations Sunday of anthrax deaths from carcasses found late last week in Falls County.

Young said weather conditions could prolong the outbreak unless vaccinations in eight counties surrounding Falls are increased. Young said "We're picking up some deaths in small herds that have not been vaccinated."

Eastern Falls County is still quarantined and will remain so until 21 days following the last anthrax death.

McCutchen said the vaccine is not expensive and costs about 25 cents a head plus time and labor. Stock should be vaccinated against the disease early in the spring each year, officials recommend.

Eastern Falls County has lost more than 300 head of cattle since the first reported cattle death June 23.

McCutchen said Falls County has not received any rains and conditions with pastures are worsening under searing summer temperatures. The grass is short and cattle grazing close can pick up the anthrax bacteria and die if they have not been vaccinated.

He said the Milam area had enough rain in showers last week to help pastures for a while, but the moisture will "play out pretty quick" with continued hot weather.

Deadline Told For TJC Extension Classes

The preregistration deadline for classes at Temple Junior College's extension campus in Cameron is Monday , August 5, Dr. Harry C. Farrell, Jr. Dean of the College, has announced.

Students interested in taking courses should contact TJC by mail or by telephone (773-9961) to get a preregistration form which must be sent back to TJC.

"If a student is interested in any courses, it is important that he send a preregistration form to TJC immediately. This preregistration information will determine what classes will be scheduled," Dr. Farrell said.

The final schedule, along with registration information, will be published around August 14, he added

College transfer, technical-vocational and continuing eductation courses will be offered at the extension campus. TJC's off-campus program is a cooperative effort by the college and the Cameron Public Schools. Classes will be held at Cameron High School.

Each of the approximately 20 courses scheduled for the fall semester will be taught either Monday or Tuesday evenings from 6:30 - 9:20. Credit classes begin on September 3, and end on December 17, and non-credit courses, depending upon the nature of the course, will vary in the number of hours the class will meet in the evening and how many class sessions will meet, Dr. Farrell said.

Tuition and fees for credit courses are $34 for one course and $43 for two courses, Dr. Farrell said. The cost for the Defensive Driving course will be approximately $13. The cost for any other non-credit courses will be approximately 50¢ per clock hour plus travel expenses pro-rated among those enrolled.

Temple Junior College's early admissions program which allows high school seniors the opportunity to earn up to a full semester of college course credit will be available this fall to area high school seniors at both the Cameron extension and main campuses of TJC.

The early admissions program, open only to high school seniors who are concurrently enrolled for a sufficient number of high school credits to complete graduation requirements during the school year in which they are enrolled at TJC, offers students course work in TJC's college--parallel or vocational-technical areas, TJC Registrar Charles L. Stout explained.

If students in the Cameron area prefer to go to the TJC extension campus in Cameron instead of the main campus in Temple, they must preregister immediately, he said. The preregistration deadline for classes being held in Cameron this fall is Monday, August 5, he said.

School Trustees Set Tax Rate For District

Cameron school trustees at a called meeting Monday evening set the school tax rate for the 1974-75 school year, hired three teachers and agreed to offer the Maysfield school property for sale.

Tax rate was set at $1.20 for local maintenance, five cents for interest and sinking fund for a total of $1.25, the same as last year.

Forrest Guess was hired as distributive education teacher, and Laura Pimpler and Audrey Witte were hired as elementary teachers.

School Supt. Buddy Dulin said the school district will advertise for bids for the sale of the old Maysfield school property, no longer used since the annexation of the Maysfield district to the Cameron district.

Austin architect John Allen attended the meeting and showed trustees drawings of the proposed high school science classrooms.

Supt. Dulin said the faculty for the coming school year is complete except for one special education teacher, one elementary teacher and one junior high teacher.

The next regular meeting of the board of trustees will be held Monday, August 8 at 8 p.m.

Local Firemen Attend School At Texas A&M

Two of Cameron's volunteer firemen are attending a firemen's school on the Texas A&M University campus this week.

Attending from Cameron are John D. Thompson and John Schmidt, according to Fire Chief Monroe Bruedigan. Thompson is attending for the second year and Schmidt is serving as an instructor.

Classes at the school are being held during the day and on some nights. The course, which ends Friday, is divided into categories concerned with pump operation, maintenance of equipment, firetruck operation and instruction for fire marshals.

Instruction is given to persons connected with municipalities and industrial fire brigades. The same classes taught in Spanish will follow completion of instruction to industrial and municipal firemen.

Highlight of the week's events were demonstrations Wednesday at the training field covering oil, butane, house and airplane fires.

Alcoa Seeks Waste Water Permit

AUSTIN

Officials from Aluminum Company of America's Rockdale Works met with members of the Texas Water Quality Board staff here Friday in a public hearing to review a proposed waste water permit which will be acted on by the board at its regularly scheduled meeting Tuesday, August 27.

The permit is one of hundreds across the state being prepared by the Texas Water Quality Board in accordance with new EPA waste water discharge standards.

Alcoa's Rockdale Works presently has a 12-year-old permit covering water leaving the plant premises via the Yegua Creek. The discharge contains suspended solids--or silt.

To meet the new permit limits, Alcoa plans to construct a small settling basin just below the point where Country Club Creek joins Yegua Creek west of U.S.Highway 77 five miles south of Rockdale.

Alcoa said the shallow settling basin, designed to catch silt from the mining area, will cover approximately five acres. The TWOB staff and company officials expressed confidence the project will provide compliance with the new permit.

Engineering design work has already begun, according to E. B. Parker, Rockdale Works environmental engineer. The TWOB staff set a target date of August 1, 1975 for completion of the project, subject to approval by the state board at its meeting next month. Actual compliance deadline is October 1, 1975. Parker said he sees no reason why Alcoa can't complete the basin within that time frame.

The new permit would establish two outfalls as opposed to the one presently used (on Yegua Creek). One would be relocated at the proposed settling basin on Yegua Creek and the other at the Alcoa Lake spillway to allow for possible future overflow from the reservoir.

No water presently leaves company property from Alcoa Lake and the TWQB staff suggested Alcoa may want a discharge permit from this point "providing flexibility in years to come." The staff referred to possible build-up of dissolved solids within the lake. The new permit would allow discharge from Alcoa Lake to control such a condition should it occur.

The man-made, 850-acre Alcoa Lake is used for cooling and processing water. The 20-year-old reservoir is open to the public for fishing and has a picnic area.

DPS Patrol Reports 17 June Accidents

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated 17 accidents on highways in Milam County during June, according to Sgt. Fred Hurst, Highway Patrol Supervisor of this area.

The accidents resulted in one death and seven injured, and brings the total of accidents for the year up to 100 with three deaths and 39 injured.

Ledbetter Lake To Be Cleaned, Stocked

Work will begin at the end of this week on more improvements to Wilson-Ledbetter Park with contract let to Joe Glaser of Buckholts for dirt work in and around the lake.

The project is a joint one of the Cameron Noon Lions Club and the city.

Work will include removal of silt and deepening of the lake, with silt used to level the area for ease of maintenance. The dam will be repaired and reshaped and brush and trees will be removed from the lake and throat of the lake.

A settling basin will be constructed on the west side of the entrance road to take drainage water and water from the swimming pool before it enters the lake.

Extensive tests by the Soil Conservation Service show that the lake will hold water once silt is removed. SCS officials said excessive silt caused water in the lake to evaporate quickly.

Plans are to stock the lake with catfish when work on it is complete.

Another feature of the renovated park will be "Nature's Acre," an area left in its native state with brush, cactus, trees and native plants. Nature trails will be built by Boy Scouts and trees and plants will be identified by markers prepared by the Scouts.

Tree trimming, which has been going on for some time, will continue along with the lake work.

Where The Politics Are...

Ah, politics.

Convention chairman, Price Daniel, Jr., acknowledges politics is keeping perhaps a dozen legislator-constitutionalists from assuring a 121 - vote two-thirds for the proposed document.

He acknowledges inherent political orientation of legislator-constitutionalists is throttling firm approval.

It seems the "right to work" question is at hand. Otherwise, Legislators sensitive to labor vote numbers say, in effect: "I think it's the best document we'll get, but I'll get clobbered by labor if I vote for it."

It is often assumed labor-influenced legislators are liberal. If the "right to work" question is now constitutionally paramount, it would seem the liberal thing to do, beyond the economic orientation of unions, is to vote for a viable constitution which will encourage a modern climate in Texas the 99-year-old Texas Constitution cannot.

This raises a modern question: "Are unions inherently people oriented or contract oriented?"

It would seem unions would have a better climate to function under a new constitution for people, not just union members, white collars, clerical workers, executives, professional or whatever division it is convenient for political blocing.

Unless we are seeing askance, we are seeing the power orientation of an old labor-management view of economics slowing what this state needs, this new proposal among other things.

The sequence of events is that the public will vote on it anyhow. If legislator-constitutionalist disarray at high per diem pay is the last thing people remember about this convention, people might well crush the document at the polls.

Why? Simply because they lack confidence in state government with this kind of example at a time when government is suspect throughout the nation.

Voter approval at the polls in November will be commensurate with the kind of approval the document receives in July. At the moment, 19th century labor-management views amidst 20th century politics are impeding passage of a document responsible to 21st century Texans.

NEWS: It's Real; It's Fun...

Your Herald is a regional non-daily. That does not just mean we put newspapers out twice-weekly on newsstands in five counties. It means we cover news in five counties, outside neighboring metro areas.

We add Reuters News Agency reports, just recently added by KLRN-TV, a public television station in San Antonio-Austin.

In the Monday edition, there was a continuing report on anthrax in the Marlin-Falls County area, the status of trial procedures of six Hearne officials indicted in Robertson County, a report on a press conference of Rep. Dan Kubiak in Austin, concerning a special session.

This coverage also includes area roundups in general news and sports of this five-county area, spot news admittedly, but highpoints you get in few other Texas newspapers.

It's taken only a few short years to reach beyond county news coverage. It's done the hard way: digging out facts, updating breaking stories, commenting on problems similar to Cameron and Milam County's, but suggesting solutions where they might universally apply.

This is called hard news. It's the guts of this newspaper, any newspaper.

We hope you appreciate the effort. It's real. And to great extent, it's fun.

RR Commission Sets Oil Allowable At 100 Percent

ALLOWABLE SET — The Railroad Commission once more set the statewide oil allowable at 100 per cent, amid reports Texas is leading all other states in the search for oil and gas.

Texas has been operating under wide-open production orders for more than two years.

Commission Chairman Jim Langdon said the agency has handled 10,600 drilling applications this year, compared to 6,600 by July of 1973. The number of drilling rigs has increased 42 per cent from a year ago — to 511 on location — twice as many as any other states, according to Langdon.

Thirty five percent of active rigs in the national are in Texas, by Langdon's count.

CONVENTION NEARS END — Whether delegates ever agree on a new state constitution or not, the Constitutional Convention of 1974 is about to wind down.

July 30 is the deadline for completion of the revision effort.

Delegates continued in pursuit of illusive compromise, voting down proposal after proposal, yet knowing that by the end of the month they probably would accept a revision package, like it or not.

ABC ADMINISTRATOR RETAINED — Alcoholic Beverage Commission Administrator O.N. "Newt" Humphreys Jr. weathered another effort to oust him from his $28,500-a-year job.

ABC Member R.L. Thornton Jr. of Dallas, for the second time, failed to get a second to a motion to fire Humphreys. Thornton made his first move last May.

Thus, Humphreys, 50, got a shaky two - to - one vote of confidence.

Thornton claims Humphreys is not as competent an administrator as he should be to head up a major tax-collecting and enforcement agency.

Humphreys said he will stick as long as he can.

COURTS SPEAK — Fuller Springs area annexation by Lufkin is invalid, the State Supreme Court held.

Texas Court of Criminal Appeals reversed a theft conviction of a Dallas man accused of stealing a blinker light from a construction site

The Supreme Court upheld an $18,000 damage award to a Parmer County man injured when he fell while delivering oil.

BONDS SOLD — Fifteen million dollars in student loan bonds were sold by the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System in spite of a member's advice to delay.

An interest rate of 6.2841 per cent offered by a Chase Manhattan Bank and First National Bank of Chicago group was accepted.

Bonds will mature in 20 years, with net interest calculated at $14,229,740.

Students will be charged seven per cent simple interest to borrow money from the loan fund. An estimated 18,000 students will apply for about $24 million in aid during the coming school year.

More than $160.5 million in student loan bonds have been sold since 1965.

REFUNDS WAITING — Some 18,500 South Texas area residents have undelivered income tax refunds awaiting them for 1972 and 1973.

Most of the taxpayers moved without leaving a forwarding address.

Internal Revenue Service urged taxpayers who think they may have money coming to them to contact IRS immediately.

The checks will be cancelled after October 1.

AG OPINIONS — Atty. Gen. John Hill, in a controversial opinion, held the State Board of Insurance has no regulatory power over prepaid health care delivery svstems (HMO'S).

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

- A Constitutional Convention delegate may be reimbursed for actual expense in chartering an airplane for an official trip if that means of transportation is reasonably necessary.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

There are some things in life there's no use trying to understand. I gave up on U .S. foreign policy long ago.

Take a recent example. As I understand it, a large portion of opium reaching this country comes from poppies grown in Turkey, so to try to put a stop to it the U.S. a couple of years ago offered Turkey a hundred million dollars or some such amount not to grow poppies, and Turkey agreed, took the money and stopped its farmers from growing the things. Maybe taught them to grow food.

Now however the money has all been used up and Turkey has told its farmers to start growing poppies again.

Naturally and rightly this outraged Washington, so much so it has even talked about cutting off all the military and economic aid we're giving Turkey, which runs into the millions of dollars annually.

But of course we won't do it. Our foreign policy operates like the proprietor of a small town or city neighborhood grocery store used to operate. He'd extend credit right and left and most folks would pay up but occasionally he'd get a customer who wouldn't and when the bill got up pretty high, say up to $1,000 the owner would consult with himself and say, "you know I've got to cut off that fellow's credit, tell him he can't charge anymore until he pays up his back bill." Then he'd get to thinking further and say, "no, if I cut him off, he'll get mad, won't try to pay his back bill and furthermore will take his business some place else."

A lot of such grocerymen eventually went broke and went to work for cash-and-carry supermarkets, but some of them, I'm convinced, went to Washington and got control of our foreign policy. They work in offices just down the street from the marginal farmers who couldn't make a go of it on the land and are now running the postal service.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Checks Due Vets On Extension

Some 55,000 school-going veterans whose GI bill eligibility was extended by two years under a law signed by the President of July 10 will receive education assistance checks by the end of July, according to Jack Coker, VA Regional Office Director.

The former eight year deadline on using school benefits expired June 30 for veterans separated from military service between January 31, 1955, and July 1, 1966, VA explained. Those veterans who happened to be in summer school at the time the new Public Law 93-337 was enacted can now be paid legally for training beyond the former expiration date of June 30.

Normally checks are delivered in advance of each month of training, Coker explained, so the Waco Regional Office prepared in advance of the new bill's enactment to process payments for summer school students as soon as legal authority to make the payments was received.

Container Plants Use More Water

COLLEGE STATION — If you think it's hot outside, just consider those container plants on your patio and in your yard.

"Container plants need a little extra care in hot weather," says Everett Janne, landscape horticulturist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Heat generated by the sun inhibits root growth in containers when soil temperatures hit the upper 90's for a span of a week or so."

Such temperatures -- and higher -- are commonplace on fully exposed patios during the summer months and result in choice container plants being lost each year.

Janne notes that the sun-loving geranium is an often-abused container plant. It does beautifully in cooler weather but will not tolerate excessive heat in the soil ball or root zone.

The type of container also affects the amount of heat to which the plant is subjected. Dark colored containers absorb more heat than light or white pots. Wood is a good container material because it is a poor conductor of heat.

"Provide shade for container plants and group them together so that they will shade one another," suggests Janne.

Check plants daily to determine their water needs. The smaller the container, the more frequently the plant needs water. Daily watering may be necessary during hot days.

"Plants can be cooled with a water spray," says Janne, "unless the water is high in soluble salts."

Before going on vacation, the horticulturist advises moving plants to a shaded area and getting a neighbor to water them regularly.

NEW TANKERS

A new Japanese-built supertanker can haul enough oil to supply a tankful of gasoline for 3,000,000 cars, National Geographic says.

STONE AGE TRIBE

The Tasaday tribe living deep in the jungle on the Philippine island of Mindanao exists in much the same way as man's Stone Age ancestors. They live together without conflicts or rivalries, and there is no word in their vocabulary for murder or war.

Manage Finances To Boost Profits

Farmers and ranchers should develop a financial management plan to increase their profit-making potential, believes Cecil Parker, economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Because capital is the most important input of production, efficiency in its use im important in maximizing profits, " says the Texas A&M University System specialist.

The financial statement, profit -- loss statement and cash flow ledger are three items requred to develop a financial management plan.

The financial statement shows the farm's financial picture at a given time. This includes the prosent solvency. of the operation and also a projection of future solvency. List all assets and liabilities. Current, intermediate and fixed or long-term groupings can be used in defining assets and providing a realistic look at repayment requirements.

The profit-loss statement sums up income and expenses and the resulting net profit or loss during a given period, such as a crop year. Handle non-farming items separately. To obtain the operation's gain or loss, subtract net cash expenses from net cash income and adjust for changes in inventory and capital items. Comparing profit - loss statements for a period of years will show any progress or decline of the farming or ranching operation.

The cash flow ledger lists all cash income and expenses. It includes family living expenses, money borrowed and debts paid. A monthly summary of these figures determines the flow of cash during the planning period. The time and amounts of credit needs and availibility of repayment funds can be determined by cash flow, points out Parker.

"Although some time is required to develop a sound financial management plan, the end result can be increased returns on capital," contends the economist.

District 4-H Horse Show

The District 10 4-H Horse Show was held on July 13 at the Burleson County saddle club at Caldwell. The day was hot, dry and long but the 55 Milam 4-H'ers entered enjoyed the show and it's competition.

In the registered mare under five years old halter class James Harris won 5th place, was finalist in the Showmanship contest and participated in the Western Pleasure and Western Horsemanship class. Gary Bleeker participated in the Grade mare Halter class and Western Pleasure with Ronnie Bleeker participating in the Grade gelding Halter class and Western Pleasurance. Debra Malone participated in Pole Bending and Barrel Racing and turned in a time of 21-97 for the barrels. Margaret Graham participated in the Pole Bending contest.

Meeting Set On Winter Pastures

By John Snell

A meeting on winter pastures will be held for all beef cattle producers on Thursday August 1 at 8 p.m. in the conference room of the Rockdale State Bank in Rickdale.
Rockdale.

Dr. J. Neal Pratt, pasture specialist, and Don Parks, area farm management specialist from the Texas A&M University Extension Service will conduct the meeting.

Dr. Pratt will discuss winter forage varieties, estableshment, fertilization, grazing and management.

Don Parks will discuss the economics of winter pastures as related to todays cattle market, seed and fertilizer cost.

This should be an interesting meeting for all beef cattle producers and all interested cattle men are invited and encouraged to attend.

HELPING A NEIGHBOR--Garland rancher Glenn Raney helps a neighbor with a sick cow. Raney and his father own 200 of their own cows and calves, a figure which makes them typical ranchers. According to Agriculture Commissioner John C. White, 83 percent of beef cattle in the United States come from herds of less than 500 head.

THE BOLL WEEVIL was first found in Texas cotton crops in the early 1890s, and it has been found in every cotton crop since that time, despite efforts to eradicate or control it. At one time, the Texas legislature offered $50,000 for an effective solution to the boll weevil problem, but a committee appointed to judge entries decided that no one who submitted a plan deserved the $50,000. This year boll weevils have been reported in cotton fields from the Rio Grande Valley to North Central Texas; and heavy damage has been reported in Ellis, Delta, Dallas, Hunt, Collin and Kaufman Counties. Overwintered boll weevil populations have been noted in Fisher, Foard, Knox and Wilbarger Counties. Increased number of cotton fleahoppers also have been noted in all cotton-growing areas of the State. Bollworm damage was noted in the Valley and in Brazos and Burleson Counties.

RICE HARVEST is underway, and Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service says that prospects for a good crop are good to excellent. Harvest of most other crops is moving north. Sorghum is ripe for cutting from the Blacklands southward, but there are a few fields yet to be planted farther north. Peanut and soybean planting in the State is almost complete; and a good corn crop is in prospect across the State.

ETC, ETC

Nothing puts fear in the hearts of a cowman like Anthrax. Many of us have never seen it nor have we ever had it in our cattle but now its showing up in some Falls County herds.

As of this writing something like seventy head have been lost to the disease. The Texas Animal Health Commission had put out roadblocks all over the restricted area. People who ranch in the area can't move their livestock out of it. That includes their old riding horse. He can't be hauled out either. One must have been lost. The only control of the disease is vaccination. That takes about 7-10 days to take effect.

Shortly after this news of Anthrax came out, I visited an auction sale where there were 2000 droughty cattle hauled in. I know the owner and as I walked in he said, "This is the biggest disaster that I have ever had in the cattle business." I walked in found a seat and it wasn't past the second animal that I knew what disaster he was talking about. The highest priced cow at the sale that day was sold for 21¢. Now this was right after the 4th of July and several of the order buyers were talking about the packers coolers were full of meat and they couldn't use the cattle at any price. One order buyer had an order for cows and only a truckload at that. I sat down and visited with an owner of an order buying company who keeps somewhere around 5000 head on feed in about 15-20 yards at all times. This gets him the order buying business of these yards. He said that they were going to buying a little better than they did last year for the reason that the Army and other gun carrying agencies are now feeding their man choice beef rather than good grades.

The feeder cattle now has to be better to get to the choice grades. He went on with his description of his business by saying, "When I need good feeder cattle, I send my buyers West of Waco toward, Goldthwaite, San Angelo, etc. When I need Okie Number 1 and 2's along with crossbreds , I come here."

He was having a field day at this sale of picking off good feeders at $2.00 a hundred below anywhere else.

Where is it all going to end. There is an old fogey story about how when people are bad, they will go to the Boogey man when they die, or they will be punished here in one eay or the other. If a man has a yacking wife, old timers will tell you he is being punished for something he did in days gone by.

What I am wondering now is, what have we done. Whatever it is, let's get it straight and right away.

That's another ham in the smokehouse.

FB Officials Ask Nixon To Sign Bill

The Texas Farm Bureau Board of Directors has asked President Nixon to sign into law an emergency livestock credit bill just passed by Congress.

The legislation provides up to $250,000 credit for individual livestock producers. Eligibility would be limited to bona fide farmers and ranchers, as determined by the Secretary of Agriculture.

Here is the text of the telegram which was signed by TFB President J. T. (Red) Woodson of Gober:

"The Texas Farm Bureau Board of Directors, representing 152,380 family members urgently requests that you sign H. R. 15560 (livestock credit legislation).

"The current cost-price squeeze and severe drouth conditions have created serious circumstances for livestock producers. This extra credit assistance is needed to prevent excessive liguidation of production units."

Sisk Asks For Cotton Study Group

Congressman B. F. Sisk, D - Calif., Chairman of the House Agriculture Committee's Cotton Subcommittee, said he has requested Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz to establish a cotton marketing study group made up of representatives of the industry and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Once established, said Sisk, the study group would use the 1974-75 marketing year and complete its report by September 1, 1975. However, he noted, certain segments of the study could and should be completed and recommendations made by not later than March 1, 1975, in time for the 1975 loan program announcement.

Reason for establishment of the study group, observed Sisk, came following extensive week-long hearings by his subcommittee in April, and from a report by the USDA Cotton Marketing Task Force.

Safeway Starts New Price Policy

Safeway Stores, Incorporated, has announced that when forced to raise retail prices, it would not do so on price-marked items of merchandise, and any items marked with more than one price would be sold at the lowest price marked.

Vice President and Division Manager, C.A. Ford states: "While in normal times price increases and decreases tend to balance out, increases are currently exceeding decreases and this program reflects our recognition of the concern caused by this abnormal situation. This is a continuation of our efforts to assist our customers whenever possible, and joins other existing programs designed to meet this objective, such as standardized meat labeling nutritional labeling and open dating."

Ford added, "The changeover will be completed by July 28. We would like to assure our customers that if two prices are marked on a package or can, they will be charged the lowest price."

Safeway has previously tested this program in its Canadian stores and will implement it throughout all Safeway stores in the United States within the next few weeks.

The program will include the following pricing policy.

1. When we are forced to make a price increase, cans and packages which are already price-marked will be sold out at the old price.
2. When a price is lowered, all sales will be at the new lower price, including all cans and packages marked with the former higher price.
3. When a can or package shows more than one price mark, you pay the lowest price.

Questions concerning the program should be directed to Public Relations Department at P.O. Box 266. Dallas, Texas 75221, Phone: 327-8211.

Preregistration Set For Day Classes At TJC

Preregistration for the fall semester day classes at Temple Junior College begins next week, Registrar Charles L. Stout has announced.

Students preregister alphabetically July 29 through August 16 with late preregistration scheduled for August 19-23. Registration for classes will be held August 28 and 29, Stout said.

Students must report to the counter in the Registrar's Office on the day assigned. Advisor's slips listing the courses in which the student will enroll for the fall semester will be given to the student. After the preregistration conference, the student will receive a registration number which will determine his time of registration for the fall semester.

"Students should report for the preregistration conference on the day assigned since the registration numbers will be issued in the order of preregistration," Stout explained. Students will not be allowed to preregister brfore the day assigned to them, he added.

To apply for admission, new students, transfer students, and former students who did not attend T.J.C. during the 1973-74 school year must file applications for admission and health forms before preregistering, Stout said.

Official transcripts that include any high school or college work attempted must be submitted also. Students may be admitted on a conditional basis until their transcripts have been received by T.J.C., Stout explained.

State law requires students under 19 applying for admission to have had at least three doses of oral polio vaccine with one or more doses received since the fourth birthday. A minimum of three doses of diphtheria/tetanus vaccine are required also with the last dose within the past ten years.

Curvacious Laura Baugh draws specators to womens pro golf

BY Jack Cavanaugh

Reuter --Striding down the fairway in a revealing pair of pink hot pants, her long blonde hair flowing behind her in the breeze, she's the epitome of a sun-bronzed California beauty -- A curvaceous, dimpled all - American girl in golf shoes.

She's also the most charismatic and appealing personality in the history of women's golf, A 19-year-old conglomerate who may yet do for women's golf what Chris Evert did for women's tennis. That is, draw crowds and attention to lady golfers, who only a few years ago were attracting only a handful of spectators, little publicity, even less interiest, but an abundance of scorn and disdain.

Like Miss Evert, Laura Baugh is more than just another pretty face. Indeed the Blue-eyed beauty from Long Beach has the credentials and abitity to become a superstar on the women's golf tour and perhaps the most dominant force in a game that is surging in popularity.

Even before Laura's much-heralded professional debut last year, the women professionals, after years of struggling for acceptance , had finally caught on, both in popularity and prize money.

This year, for example, they are playing 16 tournaments offering 1.8 million dollars in prize money. Moreover, for the second year in a row, four events offer purses of more than 100,000 . One, the Colgate - Dinah - Shore Winners Circle, paid out $200,-000 in prize money, including $32,000 to the winner, Joann Prentice. "That's more than the total purses of all the tournaments I played in when I started in 1961." said Carol Mann, president of the Ladies Professional Golf Association (LPGA).

In the early days the tour was dominated by a few girls who won practically all of the tournaments - Betsy Rawls, Lousie Suggs, Patty Berg, Babe Didriksen Zaharias and Marlene Hagge.

Now, however, there are about 20 girls capable of winning an event. So far this year, there have been nine different winners in the 13 tournaments played, with only four two-time winners (Miss Prentice, Jane Blalock, Kathy Whitworth and Joanne Carner).

Years ago the girls played to galleries that numbered in the hundreds. This year, in some events, they are rivaling the crowds at the men's PGA tournaments. On the final day of the Colgate-Dinah Shore in Palm Springs, California , they drew an estimated 15,000 spectators.

Television exposure also has increased, with the final two rounds of three tournaments being televised nationally this year and with each successive year the TV ratings have risen.

"For years we had a lack of pride in ourselves," said Miss Mann. "We didn't get the exposure and somehow we always felt like second-class citizens. But now we are enjoying an inner pride and for the first time we feel like we are somebodies."

How did the women's game, after years of travail, suddenly catch on? Miss Baugh's looks and figure and Miss Blalick's out spokenness have helped. But there have got to be other reasons.

Bud Erickson, Executive director of the LPGA, said much of the gals success can be attributed to women's lib.

"Women's lib has given us an indirect lift," said Erickson, a former official with the National Football League. "Because of Women's Lib, sponsors are more aware of women golfers and their potential for reaching other women in endoresments and in the media. One sponsor of an LPGA event told us that 80 per cent of his sales were initiated by women."

Big name sponsore such as Sears Roebuck and Colgate-Palmolive, aware of the girls commercial appeal, have put their names--and their names--and their money--in a number of events that carry purses of at least $100,000. Further, some sponsors have signed some of the leading women players for television and magazine indorsements. Colgate-Palmolive, for instance, has 25 of the lady pros under contract.

Last year, for the first time, the LPGA tournament overseas, playing a tournament in Japan. This year, four tournaments are being played outside of North America. One has already been played in Mexico, and others are scheduled in London (the Colgate American-European Open in August), Japan (tentatively scheduled for November) and in Australia (December).

The women's troupe already has an International flavor, with three Australians (Marge Masters, Jan Thomas and Robin Dummett), one Briton (newcomer Michelle Walker), one South African (Sally Little) and four girls from Japan, who play a limited number of tournaments in the U. S. None, however, is among the top 20 money - winners.

Despite the growing purses, the top women golf pros still lag behind Miss Evert, Billie Jean King and other women tennis stars. But some are gradually approaching the $100.000 mark. Last year's leading money-winner, Kathy Whitworth, earned $82,864. And this year's leader, Joann Prentice, has already won more than $53,000 and appears certain to surpass Miss Whitworth's 1973 total.

But if the 41 - year - old Miss Prentice, a professional since 1956, is the tour's top money - winner, Miss Baugh is its leading glamour figure and biggest gate attraction. Since turning pro last June she ahs yet to win a tournament, although she has finished second three times and, with earnings of more than 20,-000 is 10th in earnings this year.

Even at that her tour earnings represent only a fraction of her actual income as a veritable one-gal conglomerate. Currently she represents two golf resorts, two magazines, an automobile company, a watch company, a motorcycle firm, Colgate-Palmolive and the Bermuda Tourist Board. Indeed, her outside interests are so extensive that she's hired Mark McCormack, the sports agent who helped make Arnold Palmer a millionaire.

"I want to make a million dollars, " said Laura, whose father, Hale, played on the same University of Florida golf team as Tommy Aaron and Doug Sanders. "I love to make money."

Laura, whose 115 pounds are apportioned in just the right places on her five-foot, three-inch frame, also aspires to become the world's best woman golfer. "I don't have a time-table, but I want to become number one and the leading money-winner," she said.

On the course, Laura reacts to applause with a smile and a wave to the crowd. After a poor shot she is apt to stamp her foot and grimace before moving down the fairway in a spry gait. Like Palmer, she has a flair for the dramatic. In her debut in Atlanta last year she led after the first two rounds before finishing second, an unprecedented feat for a rookie.

Because of Laura, more men than ever are flocking to watch the women pros. Does she object to being looked on as a sex object?

"That doesn't bother me at all," she said. "I play as well as I can to win. If there is glamour attached or if people think I'm sexy, that's fine with me. But I'm not a women's libber." Nor, for that matter, are many of the another women pros.

It would seem that the overwhelming attention given Laura would rankle some of her collergues. Bonnie Bryant, a three-year pro, said: "It can be discouraging at times when you hit a good shot and no one pays any attention. Yet Laura gets applause just for walking down the fairway."

But Carol Mann says Miss Baugh is great for golf . "She's dedicated. Others are capitalizing on her beauty and glamour, but she is capitalizing on her golf. I'd like to see 20 more like her on the tour."

Bb Erickson denied any of the girls are jealous of Laura. "The other girls know Laura attracts spectators and that's what our tour needs."

Most of the girls hit their drives about 225 yards off the tee, the range of a good weekend golfer. And therein, said Erickson, lies much of their appeal.

"The average golfer can't identify with Jack Nicklaus and the other top men pros, But they relate to the girls, whose shots are within the capability of the average player. That's one of the reasons the tour has become so successful."

That's right. Costs of parts and materials are skyrocketing so Friedrich prices must go up in August.

But, if you buy NOW you can save from $40 to over $100, depending on the BTU/Hr capacity you want and need.

Save again when you run it! Friedrich makes more models of high efficiency room air conditioners than anybody. Some models will save you up to 39%* in electricity when you run them. And that 39% you save month after month, year after year for as long as you own it.

When you can save anything these days you better grab it!

Since 1883 Friedrich Costs you less in the long run!

New Program Open For Seniors

An early admissions program which will allow high school seniors the opportunity to earn up to a full semester of college course credit will begin this fall at Temple Junior College.

The program, open only to high school seniors who are concurrently enrolled for a sufficient number of high school credits to complete graduation requirements during the school year in which they are enrolled at TJC, offers students course work in TJC's college parallel or vocational-technical areas, TJC Registrar Charles L. Stout explained.

To be eligible for the program, the student must have the written approval of his high school principal or other designated school official and must furnish written approval from his parent or guardian, Stout said.

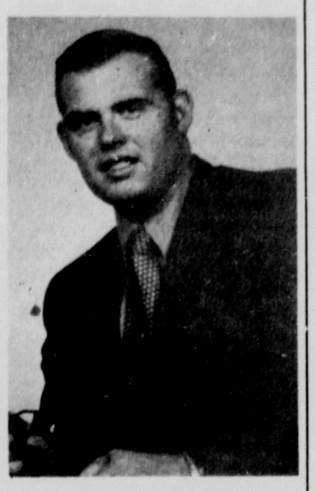
The early admissions program will allow a student to enroll for no more than two college credit courses in any semester. Credit for the courses will not be granted to the student until he completes the requirements for high school graduation, Stout explained.

As a student at TJC, the high school senior is expected to comply with all policies of TJC and of the high school which he attends, including daily attendance requirements set forth by the high school, Stout said.

Students interested in applying for the TJC Early Admissions Program must complete an application for admission to TJC, a health form required by all public junior colleges, and an application for the Early Admissions Program , Stout said.

The written approval that is required of the parent or guardian and the proper high school official must be submitted on the Early Admissions Program application, he added.

Additional informationa about course offerings, preregistration , registration and admissions is available from the Registrar's Office at Temple Junior College or by calling 773-9961. Ext. 40.



REV. CHARLES LINDLEY

New Minister Moves Here

Charles D. Lindley , former pastor of a church in Albuquerque, N. M., is new minister of the East 3rd and North Central Church of Christ.

Rev. Lindley, 28, has been preaching for 12 years. He and his wife, Nancy, moved to Cameron the past week. Prior to three years with Bosque Farms Church of Christ, Albuquerque, the Lindleys were in Rosebud for three years.

TJC Regents Call Tax Election

Temple Junior College's Board of Regents unanimously approved an order calling for a tax election on August 6, 1974, to ask voters to approve an increase in TJC's Maintenance and Operations (M & O) tax levy.

The present authorized combined M & O and Bond Service tax rate for the TJC district is 25¢ per $100 property valuation, based on 50% of the fair market value. The Board is asking taxpayers to approve a 40¢ per $100 M & O tax, although a tax if only approximately 32¢ per $100 would be levied this year.

The 40¢ is to cover increased M & O costs anticipated for the next several years, with the Board of Regents setting the tax rate at whatever is necessary a particular year.

The Board of Regents decided to call for the election following a report by a Budget Committee which showed that anticipated revenues would fall some $182-000 short of essential expenditures during the 1974-75 school year.

Rockdale Student Attends Seminar

Stephen Green, a student at Rockdale High School, has completed studies in Southern Methodist University's 18th annual John von Neuman Mathematics Seminar.

Greene, who lives with his parents at 1907 Mistletoe in Rockdale, was one of 54 high-ability high school juniors who were picked to participate in the just--complete seminar by their mathematics teachers and guidance counselors.

LIFE IS FULL OF QUESTIONS

One of the most common we spell with just three letters, W-H-Y.

As children we want to know the reason for everything. Why is snow cold, or sugar sweet? We grow into adolescence and the question is usually linked with restrictions: Why can't I? In maturity there are more and greater problems to solve, troubles and disappointments to overcome. And still we ask the age-old question, "Why?"

The Church knows our questions and our problems and invites us to come, bringing them with us.

In the Church we find new friends. Many of them have known sorrows and disappointments and through their faith have found courage. They will inspire us to try again.

Still more important we can learn to know the Christ. In His Divine wisdom He holds the answers to life's questions. In His love He invites all who need His help.

RIGHT OUT of Jules Verne, deep diving vessels will carry scientists to the bottom of the Atlantic for a close look at a massive submarine ridge that encircles the globe much like the seam of a baseball. A National Geographic map pinpoints the area oceanographers are exploring this summer.

Deep Diving Craft To Explore Atlantic Rift Valley

Man has barely glimpsed the most extensive feature on his planet.

In the early 1950's oceanographers discovered the Mid-Ocean Ridge, a continuous underwater mountain chain that winds some 40,000 miles through all the world's ocean basins, the National Geographic Society says.

Along its crest runs a narrow rift valley, floored with hot rock. In a process known as "seafloor spreading," material from the earth's interior wells upward in these valleys. The ocean floor moves steadily outward from the rift, pulled or pushed across a less rigid layer beneath by forces stillnot understood.

Will Dive in Valley

This summer French and American scientists aboard three bizarre - looking underwater craft will attempt to shed new light on the mysterious undersea forces. They will dive deep into the rift valley that follows the crestline of the 12,000-mile-long Mid-Atlantic Ridge. It lies almost halfway between North America and Europe, and forms a major portion of the Mid-Ocean Ridge.

Here violent volcanic eruptions occur, and--unseen by man--molten rock constantly wells up through the rift as the floor of the Atlantic spreads outward, carrying Europe and North America apart by nearly an inch a year.

Explains a prominent geologist, "The earth is alive and the rift valley is one of the best places to study its behavior."

Zeroing in on a portion of the valley near the Azores, the scientists will do geological mapping, sample water from undersea vents, and make extensive collections of the rocks and mineral deposits along the valley and on its walls.

Samples collected by the scientists could shed light on earth's basic processes. Experts believe that earth's seemingly rigid crust actually consists of a crazy quilt of great rafts, or "plates," that are much like huge ice floes jostling about on a frozen sea. From 30 to 100 miles thick, the plates slowly move, carrying the continents and ocean basins with them, the so-called continental drift.

ORIGIN OF OCEANS

The dives initiate the final phase of the French-American Mid - Ocean Undersea Study, known as Project FAMOUS. The American effort is coordinated by the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution with financial support from the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, the National Science Foundation, and the Office of Naval Research.

Project FAMOUS has been described as the most comprehensive survey of the deep sea floor ever undertaken. It is expected to yield new knowledge about the origin of the earth's continents and oceans, and to furnish a firsthand view of the early geologic processes that formed them.

The rift valley also may be the formation zone for mineral deposits. In a similar region at the bottom of the Red Sea lie pools of of super-salty water that are as hot as 1400 Fahrenheit.

Brilliantly colored layers of ooze in these hot areas, plumbed by scientists from Woods Hole, were found to be incredibly rich in copper, zinc, iron, gold, and silver. Other such mineral--rich layers have been discovered just above basement rock near other ocean rifts.

Forget-me-nots are said to cure the bites of snakes and mad dogs!

Farm And Ranch Safety Week Set For July 25-31

Governor Dolph Briscoe has proclaimed the week of July 25-31 Farm and Ranch Safety Week in Texas.

"Although the farm and ranch environment contains many hazards," the governor said in his proclamation, "experience has shown that caution, common sense, skill and protective equipment can counter these hazards and keep accidents and injuries to a minumum. Texas farmers and ranchers, their families and employees need to dedicate themselves to the task of safely producing the commodities needed by an entire nation."

The proclamation is part of a statewide farm and ranch accident prevention campaign being conducted by the Texas Safety Association , Texas Farm Bureau, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Future Farmers and Future Homemakers of America and Young Farmers of Texas. The week also concurs with National Farm Safety Week under the cosponsorship of the National Safety Council and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

State Health Department figures show that there were 214 fatal accidents on Texas farms during 1973. That number is up 16.9 percent over 1972. The highest ranking fatal farm accidents in 1973 were those involving firearms (42 deaths), drownings (41 deaths), tractors (26 deaths), fires and burns (24 deaths) and falls (20 deaths).

This year's national campaign is focusing on the fall with the theme, "ABCs of Avioding Falls--Alertness, Balance, Care."

Joe Smetana, TSA vice president for farm and ranch safety, offered some basic suggestions for preventing falls:

--Watch your step. Survey your path to spot slipping, tripping hazards.

--Wear shoes and boots with slip-resistant soles and heels. Clean them before climbing, mounting farm equipment, or walking on hard, smooth surfaces.

--Keep walking surfaces free of ice, snow, manure, loose grain, etc.

--Never permit children to ride on farm equipment. Establish a "no riders" rule --no one should be on farm equipment other than those necessary for work operation or for instructional purposes.

--Use hand holds or rails when climbing off and on machinery. Use handrails on stairs.

--Inspect ladders before each use. Repair or replace if unstable or faulty. Set ladders on firm footing. Set straight ladder base out one foot for each four feet up. Don't overreach. Stay off tall ladders on gusty days.

--Keep buildings maintained. Fix broken flooring, steps, etc.

--Have a storage place for everything; put things away when finished. Good housekeeping is a falls prevention "must."

--Don't Block your view when carrying large items.

--Look for hidden hazards when walking in weeds, tall grass, etc.

--Provide plenty of light so you can see where you are going and what you're doing.

--Fatigue, illness, excessive alcohol, worry, poor vision , anger , medicants which make you drowsy, etc. make you less alert, more prone to fall.

--Take time to be safe.

Santa Fe Reports Income Up

Record revenues and net income for both the first six months and the second quarter of 1974, for Santa Fe Industries, Inc., were announced today by John S. Reed, chairman.

Revenues of $695.4 million were up 22 percent compared with the first six months of last year and net income rose 29 percent to $56.6 million, or $2.21 per share compared with $1.72 per share in 1973. Second quarter earnings were $30.3 million, or $1.18 per share compared with $.92 last year.

While higher revenues were produced by both transportation and natural resources divisions, the increase in income before Federal imcome tax of $20.5 million for the first half was due primarily to petroleum operations reflecting higher prices for crude oil. The petroleum group contributed $37.9 million to income compared with $12.2 million during the first six months of 1973.

JCPenney

Last year 3,100 people stayed at the beach. Permanently.

Of course they all drowned.

But then, another 55,600 Americans were killed in motor-vehicle accidents. And 17,600 died from falling. Fire claimed another 6,300 lives.

The figures go on and on. But maybe you get the point.

Don't let us hear about you by accident.

Hromcik Reunion Held Here

The descendants of John and Katherine Hromcik held their first annual reunion, Saturday, July 20, at the Knights of Columbus Hall, in Cameron.

Five children, 18 grandchildren, and 33 great - grandchildren were present. They began the day by attending Mass at St. Monica's Catholic Church, followed by a covered dish luncheon.

Officers selected were Rudolph Hromcik of Ft. Worth - Pres., Rudolph Tepera, Jr. of Cameron - Secretary-Treasurer, and Mrs. Henry I. Lee of Temple-Historian. Other members of the family present came from Oklahoma City, Austin, Del Rio, Arlington, Fort Worth, Temple, Rockdale, Burlington, and Cameron.

Sports-Murray-Go-Round

By Tom Murray

OUICKIES:

Notice where Baylor Center Aubrey Schultz admitted to a writer, "We talked too much last fall." He's right and Grant Teaff's Cinderella Bears tuned into a 2 -- 9 football pumpkin... Think there's not some jealousy among college football coaches? Bill Yeoman, not long ago, told a Houston Radio man he never recommended a Texas, or SWC football player, for All-American, "Because we never see them." Of course, that was before his UH team began playing Rice. And, before Son Gary became a UT star.

Written quotes, dragged out much later, sometimes reflect some dramatic changes. Before Emory Bellard's first year at A&M, 1972, he was quoted that Tailback Mark Green could become, "One of Texas A&M All-time great backs." In the same periodical, Green told writers about James Debcak, the 6-6, 240 pounder, "He'll be as good as any tackle A&M ever had." Both quit the Aggie Squad.

BIG KICKS COMING:

A&M and UT could have the country's two biggest place-kickers this fall, with Aggie Randy Haddox towering over Longhorn, Mike Dean. Haddox, 6-5, 240-pounder out of Chesterton, Ind., even looks big to the 6-0, 220 pound Dean. A Houston Waltrip senior, Dean is a nephew to Tom Dean, the SMU All-America tackle of the Doak Walker era.

At last report, Galveston Ball's All-state Linebacker Jim Yarbrough, headed for Darrell Royal's UT corral, was up to 262 pounds...In the old days, Texas Assistant Bully Gilstrap would have called Yarbrough, "Hog killing size."... Don't know about yours, but in my lifetime, Dizzy Dean was major league baseball's most magnetic personality. We're all going to miss him.

DPS Sets Public Auction

Interested in a clean used car?

Or, perhaps a four-wheel drive jeep?

If not, and if used modes of transportation aren't included in your immediate plans, then how about business machines, miscellaneous shop equipment or even radio gear?

Texans will have a chance to bid on 100 surplus Department of Public Safety vehicles in addition to various items of office equipment as the agency conducts a public auction in Austin July 27 at 10 a.m.

The auction, which will be conducted in cooperation with the State Board of Control, will be held at DPS Headquarters at the intersection of Guadalupe and Koenig Lane in Austin.

According to DPS officials, many of the automobiles are air conditioned and fully equipped.

Office equipment items include adding machines, typewriters, tape recorders, a dictating machine and others. Several items found in shops will be auctioned by Nelson International of Dallas and include torches, drills, jacks, air compressor, frequency meters, tube checker and power plant.

The DPS plans to auction two way mobile radio units, station transceivers and base station cabinets in addition to other gear.

"Best" Hearing Aids* Being Thrown Away

HOUSTON- Finally, after years of tests, an internationally known hearing expert has written a pamphlet to explain how he believes the external ear (Pinna) can be used to gather and clarify wanted speech sounds.

Moreover, he explains why the ear* may exceed ANY HEARING AID to equalize the strong Vowel sounds with soft consonant sounds.

His logic is that unequal hearing contributes to the problem of WORD SEPARATION in noise areas.

If words run together, if people's speech sounds muffled, EVEN WITH AN AID if you HEAR BUT DON'T UNDERSTAND, then this pamphlet could help you realize what may be possible.

DEMONSTRATION HERE In (Cameron) the week of July 26 - 31 by appointment only. Write "Nature's Aid" P. O. Box 13257, Houston, Tx. 77019. State that you wish to be contacted or to only send FREE Phamplet.

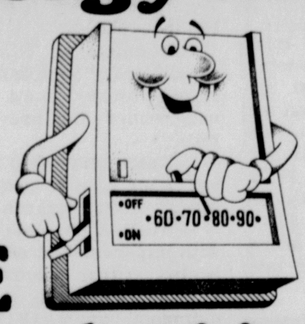
Reducing plan for energy users



Plan E

How to save electricity when using air conditioning

Central Systems

1. Keep equipment at top operating efficiency. Have it checked seasonally by qualified serviceman.
2. Check filter every 30 days. Dirty filters cause equipment to use excessive electricity. If filter is permanent, clean by manufacturer's directions; if it's disposable, it should be replaced when dirty.
3. Keep furniture, draperies away from air outlets and returns. Clean often.
4. Close draperies and blinds to keep out direct sunlight.
5. Keep fireplace damper closed. Draft pulls cool air up the chimney.
6. Proper home insulation keeps the cool in, cuts energy use. Attic ventilation helps, too. Insulation questions? Call TP&L.
7. Shade on roof and walls can reduce energy needed to cool. But trim trees, shrubs away from outside compressor unit. Keep it free of leaves, debris. If air flow is blocked, unit uses more energy.
8. Weatherstrip doors and windows; caulk cracks to prevent drafts and cool air loss.
9. Keep windows closed. Open outside doors as little as possible.
10. Set thermostat on 78° and leave it there. Turn unit off if you'll be away from home several days.

Window Units
Follow all above suggestions, plus these:

11. Buy unit with highest "energy efficiency ratio" (EER). Uses less electricity to cool. If EER is not on sales tag, ask for it or figure it yourself. Divide "wattage" into "BTU" capacity. Both figures are on unit.
12. Place unit where it'll get as little direct sun as possible.
13. Aim air outlets at lower half of doorway to next room to allow warm air from that room to enter at the doortop for recooling, recirculation.
14. Never vent air conditioner into garage. Ventilation is usually too poor for top performance of your unit.

Conserve electricity and you help conserve one or more of the fuels needed to produce it: natural gas, coal and oil. Conserve fuels and you help assure that there will be enough to meet essential needs for electricity in the future.

When you pass a TP&L office, warehouse, generating plant or other facility, you'll see that we've turned off all non-essential lighting. And, in as many other ways as possible, TP&L is reducing its own uses of electricity.

If you would like additional information on conserving electricity, call or see the Customer Service Representative in the TP&L Office.

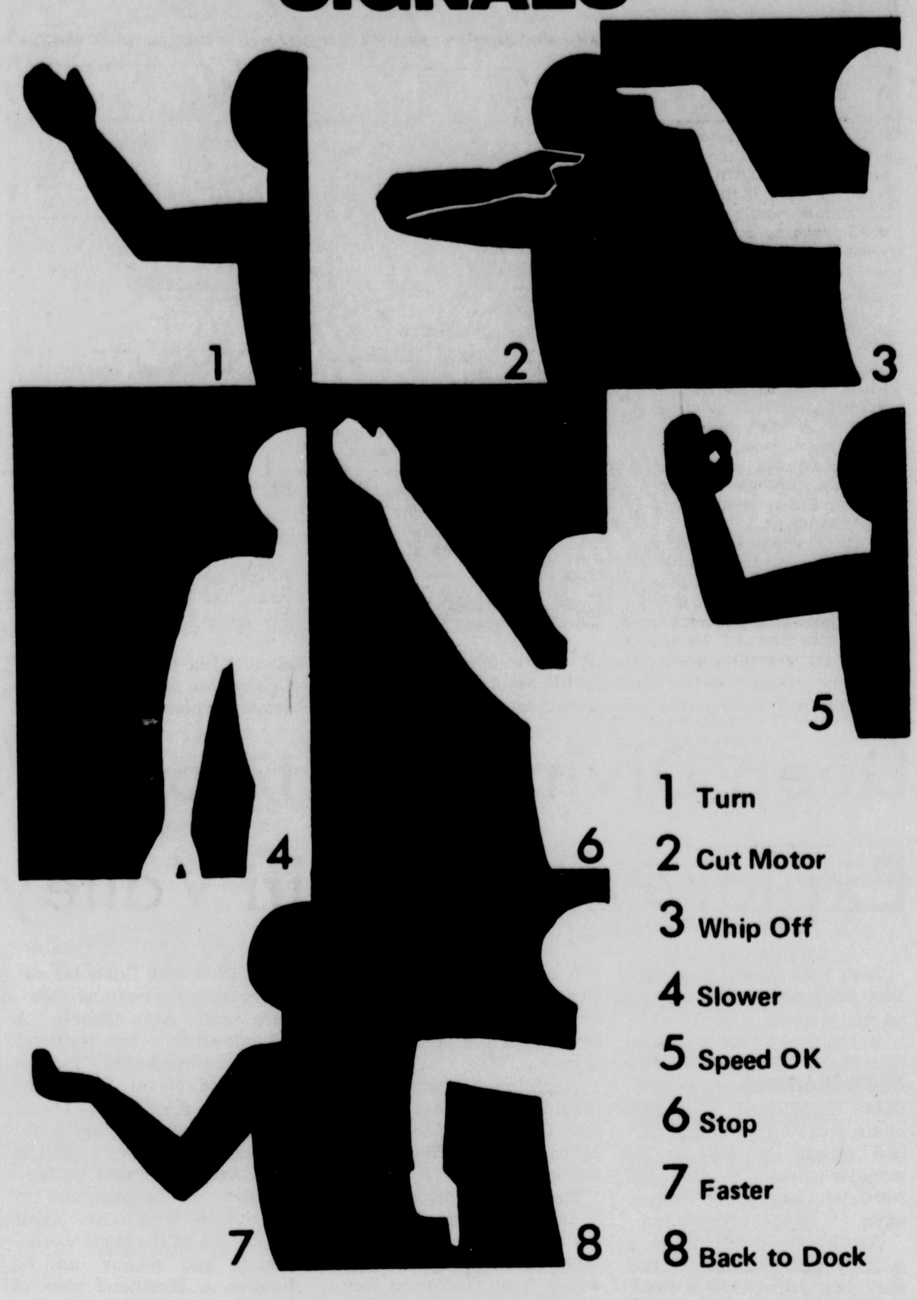
WATER SKIING SIGNALS



Safety Rules Outlined For Water Skier, Boat

"Is this someone's idea of fun?" You might ask yourself when you're up to your neck in water, looking at the rear of a boat that's going to try to pull your arms out of their sockets.

Judging from the Fourth of July crowds on Texas' lakes, the answer to that question must be "yes." Texans do love to water ski.

Unfortunately, says the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's water safety section, this love is often blind where common sense is concerned, so they offer a few do's and don'ts for water skiers.

Do have two persons on board when pulling a skier, one to run the boat, and one to act as an observer to relay information from the skier to the skipper. Although this isn't a state law in Texas it is a good idea. State law does require a rear-view mirror when you are pulling a skier.

Do stay clear of solid objects such as docks and trees. They can slow a skier down in a hurry. Also, stay clear of swimmers, fishermen and bouys.

Do water ski parallel to the shore, and remember to come in slowly when landing.

Do know water-ski signals and use them.

Do use a boarding ladder when you finish skiing, and make sure the boat operator stops the motor before taking on any skiers or swimmers.

Do hold up a ski if you fall in a heavy boat traffic area.

Don't jump from the boat while it is undeway.

Don't holler "hit it" while there is still slack in the tow rope.

Don't wrap a ski rope around any part of the body.

Don't ski in shallow water.

Don't ski directly in front of another boat.

Don't ski at night.

Water skiing safety literature is available free from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, Water Safety Section, John H. Reagan Building, Austin, Texas 78701.

We wish to express our deepest appreciation to all our friends, neighbors, and relatives for all the cards, memorials food, and beautiful flowers, and kind expression of sympathy during the loss of our beloved mother, sister, grandmother, great grandmother, and great great grandmother.

A special thanks to the dear sister (a heart specialist) who never left her bed side.

Also all the other sisters, and nurses, at St. Edward Hospital. Also Dr. Perrin, Dr. Richardson, and Dr. Vardiman for their tremendous effort.

Our thanks to Rev. Henry B. Beseda for the comforting words to Mrs. Larry Zajicek for the beautiful songs, to all the ladies that served the food, and Marek-Burns - Laywell Funeral Home for their courtesy and services.

Words cannot express the gratitude we feel knowing that our dear mother was loved by all. God bless each of you.

THE CAMERON HERALD

A CHICKEN IN EVERY POT!

Chicken is one of the most versatile meats. It can be cooked in a variety of ways with all kinds of ingredients. Chicken is a low-cost source of good nutrition and is available in many forms. Chicken is low in fat and high in protein. A three-ounce serving of skinless, broiled breast of chicken has about 115 calories (with the skin on, it's still only about 185 calories), and provides slightly more complete protein than an equal amount of beef!

Here are some of the many types of chicken found on today's market:

Broiler-Fryer: These average 2-3½ lbs. and are tender and versatile. This type comprises about 90% of all chickens sold.

Roaster: A little older and larger than a broiler-fryer, a roaster will weigh about 3½-6 lbs.

Capon: A larger bird, about 4-7 lbs., with fine flavor and a generous quantity of white meat. This is an excellent roasting chicken.

Heavy Hen: A plump, meaty, mature hen, weighing about 4½-6 lbs. This is generally sold as a stewing or baking hen.

Rock Cornish Game Hens: A small specialty chicken, usually under 1½ lbs. A half or whole bird is an adequate serving. They are usually roasted.

Try some delicious chicken today in your favorite recipe, or try a favorite of mine.

CHICKEN CREOLE

One 2½ lb. broiler-fryer, cut in serving pieces	One 16 oz. can tomatoes
1½ tsp. salt	One 4 oz. can mushrooms
½ tsp. paprika	½ tsp. thyme
1 medium onion sliced	1 medium green pepper thinly sliced
1½ cups chopped celery

Sprinkle chicken with ½ tsp. salt and paprika. Place under broiler for ten minutes or until browned. Turn once. Combine remaining ingredients in a large electric skillet. Bring to a boil, cover and cook ten minutes. Add chicken, cover, reduce heat and simmer 30 minutes, or until chicken is tender.
